When only a short distance had been covered the Boers sent some shells among the Company, causing the men promptly to increase their already extended order, and in this way the advance continued until within range of rifle fire, when, just as the Company was preparing for dismounted duty, it was ordered to retire, as the fire was becoming too hot. Having withdrawn a little distance they halted and took up a position close to a pompom, but hardly had the men dismounted to ease their horses when the enemy again found the range, and forthwith sent several shells among them, necessitating another change, and it is certainly a marvel that no one was hit. It was now possible to make out the enemy s position on Diamond Hill, over two miles ahead. It appeared to consist of a precipitous range...
