Lulu.com. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 262 pages. Ross Adams in Dress Circle magazine: I have just reviewed two of John Howard Reids recent publications, Hollywood Movie Musicals and More Movie Musicals. The research that goes into these books is outstanding. Invaluable as they are, film guides such as Maltins, Halliwell's, Ballantynes, Blockbuster and Variety are text only and give no visual insight to a film. Reids books with star photos, stills, and reproductions of posters and newspaper advertisements, show something of the character of a film essential if one is an avid collector or doing research. As an aid to the DVD movie collector, John Howard Reids books are invaluable. Many of us have bought movies, thinking they were well worth the money, only to find a disappointing, second-rate film. Reid gives us all the information we need (as well as his personal opinions) so that we can buy (or not buy!) with confidence. Its interesting to note that some of our leading film critics and commentators not only recommend but actually use Reids books, many of which have received rave reviews in front-line newspapers, such as The Times, The Sunday Telegraph, The Courier Mail, The Newcastle Herald, The Bulletin, The Sun, The Mercury, and The Advertiser. Obviously Reids passion for his subject is one of total commitment. The books list complete casts and technical credits, songs and musical numbers, prizes and awards, copyright and release dates, running times, title changes, synopses, comments, reviews and essential background information. The musicals detailed in More Movie Musicals, a large-format book of 260 pages, range from best-loved movies like An American in Paris, The Great Caruso and South Pacific; through personal favorites like The Band Wagon, Calamity Jane, Deep In My Heart, The Emperor Waltz, Footlight Parade, Fra Diavolo, Hollywood Hotel, Lillian...
