Excerpt: . . . then cwssed Lake George, and encamped on the bunks of the Hudson near Saratoga. Here his progress wag checked by the Americans under General Gates; and sfter twm severe actions, he was forced to surrender on thfe 17th of October, 177. This event diffused an universal joythroughout the United States. The European nations, and France in particular, who from pretjudice of envy, had so long been desirous of the downfall of British grandeur, received this news with open exultation. Indeed, several individuals in France had eSerted themselves in favour of the Americans. A number of brave and experienced officers of the Irish brigade volunteered in the cause of the British Colonies, against the parent State; and even some of the young nobility of France were emulous to distinguish themselves on this occasion. The most conspicuous of these, were the Marquis dela Fayette; Rochedu Fcrmoymoy,...
