This pdf will not be simple to start on reading through but extremely enjoyable to see. I have read and i also am sure that i will planning to read through again once more in the foreseeable future. You wont really feel monotony at whenever you want of the time (that's what catalogues are for relating to if you request me).

Not illustrated. 1881 Excerpt: . . . of the receipt advertisement Mr. Farquhar had sent to that journal. Rab opened the packet and read the announcement, which was simple enough: --Mr. Farquhar, of, Scotland, has received the 600 forwarded to the Shire Bank. But another advertisement printed below this caught Rabs eye, and he went on reading aloud, regardless of Barbys Whisht! that will keep: --Dont think yeve undone your sin by paying back the money. Its no your credit, whoever ye are, that you didnt ruin an honest mans house. Youre beholden to each one that rose up and did his own part, or you might have had the blude o a broken heart an of spoiled lives to carry to your grave. You put black, bitter feelings into gude kindly folk. I doubt you are no better now than you were before, for youve been a thief, and youre no honest till you ca your deeds by their richt names. Own to God the sin you did commit, and thank Him for saving you from waur than you reckoned on. For an evil tree cannot bring forth gude fruit, and, gin a sin doesna turn a curse to a whom it touches, its because its turned aside by something not o itsel, but o the grace an gift o God. Im sorry for you an your money-making, puir creatur. Now, Im quite sure thats your doing, Barby, said Rab. What made you go and send that long paragraph without saying a...
